DETAILED ACTION

The information disclosure statement filed January 31, 2005 has been made of record and the references cited therein have been considered by the examiner.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claim 1 is rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 1 of U.S. Patent No. 6,830,578 in view of Sauer et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,685,630) and further in view of Kortenbach et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,624,459).

Claim 1 of U.S. Patent No. 6,830,578 teaches all of the elements recited in claim 1 of the instant invention except side faces which are flat and slope from the shaft toward the distal end of the obdurator, and beveled portions on the glide tip that extend along the side faces and have a downward bevel. Sauer et al. discloses a similar obdurator 12 with a distal tip 28 that has four substantially flat surfaces 28a, 28b, 28c and 28d that slope from the shaft of the obturator towards the distal tip (see Figure 3). Sauer et al. thus demonstrate that obturator tips having four flat surfaces are well known in the art as an alternate shape for the piercing tip (compare to Figure 4 of Sauer et al., which has a conical tip). Accordingly, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make the piercing tip 35 of U.S. Patent No. 6,830,578 with four flat surfaces that slope from the shaft of the obturator towards the distal tip, in the manner disclosed by Sauer et al. Similarly, Kortenbach et al. disclose a trocar 100 having a distal cutting tip 106 that includes three sharpened fins 106a-106c where each fin includes a single bevel 116a-116c that faces downward (see Figures 1 and 2). Kortenbach et al. discuss at length that importance of the bevels in penetrating tissue (see col. 1 and col. 2 of Kortenbach et al.). Kortenbach et al. thus demonstrate that beveled edges on the fins or blades of a cutting tip of a trocar are well known in the art. Accordingly, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the blade 37 of U.S. Patent No. 6,830,578 with a downward bevel on the two wing elements 39A and 39B, in the manner disclosed by Kortenbach et al.
